THE TOWN PUMP.

The following clipping was given to me the other day and I herewith give it to you:

"A small boy of Jet Creek, was recently introduced to his newborn baby brother. He looked it over with dissatisfaction, and finally asked, 'Mamma, where did this thing come from?'" An angel brought it from Jackson, Jimmie?" "Wuz you awake when he came?" "Certainly, Jimmie, he was awake, mamma, and that I've got to say is the truth." "Well easy," I'd like to see any old angel put off such a looking thing on me. But I guess we are stuck unless I kin work Reuben Ruggles over at Athol to trade one of his pigs for it 'sightseen."

One of our farmers hired a boy last week to help about the place. One morning before he started for the house he said to go to the stable and calf over in the stall. The boy took about a quart of salt, rubbed it all over the calf, working it into the hair. A couple of colts in the pasture scented the salt and got after the calf. The farmer returned home soon after and found the boy had the calf to wash it. But the calf, thinking he wanted to lick, too, ran through a hole in the fence, and disappeared down the road toward Sweeney Ranch.

The Around-the-town Man of the Louisville Times, handed the following to the Totalitarooster for publication:

An old negro is cook for a family at Anchorage. The other day there was a telephone call for her at the house where she is working. She went to the house and a few minutes she came rushing downstairs.

"Good Lawdy, Miss!" she called to the woman.

"What you recker dey want wif me? My daughter wanter to know wuz my nose a-bleddin' said she drent it!"

MR. J. C. ALCOCK,
Jeffersontown, Ky.:

I want to tell you of a little incident that occurred the other day. I was in the city of Louisville with your mother in the city of Louisville, when the owner of the store wishing to show a customer how he had the goods he was showing advertised, said: "Wait, let me get The Jeffersonian and show you my ad this week," going to the back part of the store and taking a paper off the shelf, where he had left it a few moments before. He picked up a paper there, but on seeing it was not The Jeffersonian, said: "Well I can't keep up with that paper; some one else is doing it again." Since you are coming to us in such a busy city of Louisville you are very much appreciated. MYRTLE WHALEY, Jeffersontown, Ky.

A Handsome Sanitaire Bed

WILL BE GIVEN AWAY

Absolutely Free

LOOK FOR IT IN Our Show Window

From the above illustration of the Sanitaire bed you can only see the design—you can't get an idea of their beauty, the artistically carved chivels, the rich finishes, and their PERFECTLY SANITARY FEATURES. They are finished in many beautiful and pleasing combinations of delicate tints in blues, greens, hand rubbed porcelain "Snowy Whites," and the popular "Gold" and "Silver Gold," so that the color scheme of your bedroom can be properly carried out.

When you see these beds come into our store, you will just be as enthusiastic about them as we are, and want one in your own bedroom.

This Sanitaire Bed Free—No String To It.

The manufacturers of the Sanitaire beds have sent us one of their finest beds, with instructions to give it to one of the ladies who visits our store during the display week. The price of the beds is $100.00 off—it isn't necessary to buy anything else to obligate you—just pay your way and fill out a coupon at our store yourself during the sale, when there will be daily displays of the Sanitaire beds. If you are interested in these beds, we shall be glad to tell you all about the Sanitaire Club we are organizing. You will not be asked to buy anything unless you are interested.

Absolute Auction

OF
One of the Best Little Farms in Jefferson County and an Elegant Location for Suburban Residence.

For good and sufficient reasons, Mr. Joe H. Spore, has authorized me to sell his farm of 10 acres, with improvements, consisting of a nice dwelling, barn, outbuildings, etc., also 11 acres in fine fruit, located one-half mile west of Jeffersonville, Ky., and one-half mile east of Falls City.

Gardeners, Attention! You are probably working land worth $100 per acre, and if you don't know what to do with it, here is your chance. It is the opportunity for you to buy a farm admirably adapted for your purpose, which is to say, you can grow whatever you want to grow. There is no better opportunity than this for you to start a garden.

Do Not Miss This Sale if you want good land in a good neighborhood, convenient to schools, etc.

TERMS—$100 down balance in one and two years, with interest at 6 per cent. note required on payment in full, interest retained. A deposit of 10 per cent. of purchase price will be required on day of sale.

RAT-SNAP!

No Danger in Handling—But Do Not Eat.

A Few Pointers About Rat Snap.

By a newly scientific discovery there is NO SMELL after rats eat RAT-SNAP. By the most careful study of the habits and tastes of rats, it has been found that they leave all other foods after it, while in the cases of rats that have been fed on it, they will eat nothing else.

RAT-SNAP is made of the strongest poisons known and the ingredients carefully selected to insure its effectiveness.

RAT-SNAP acts quickly and will kill two dozen rats or mice. No ammonia or strong smelling odors are present.

RAT-SNAP never spoils—it is good for a long time.

RAT-SNAP is safe to handle in the hands of persons who are not afraid of rats.

There were exclamations from the listeners, for Xenophon spoke as one having authority. Suddenly he turned and saw his host's hand had closed at Judge Brinkley's shoulder.

"An' dass de main?" he cried; "dass de main kin hit tell yo' Ah speak de trut'."

Before Briscoe answered, Eph Watts looked at him keenly and then turned to Lige Willets and whispered: "Get on your horse, and in and ring the courthouse bell like fury. Do as I say."

"Tears stood in the judge's eyes. 'It is so,' he said solemnly. 'He speaks the truth. I didn't mean to tell it to day—no, I didn't.' 'They deserve it. 'The bounds?' he cried. 'My daughter deserves it. My daughter was the first to cross the fence. She and the lady who was visiting us saw them—saw them clearly. The lady saw them several times clear as day by the flashes of lightning. The sounds were coming this way. They must have been dragging him with them there. He couldn't have had a show for them. They wanted them. Do what you like. Maybe they've got him at the Crossroads. If there's a chance of it, dead or alive, bring him back!"

A man ran up, shouting the clamor through the judge's gods.

"Bring him back!" God could, maybe he won't. Who's travelin' my way? I go west. Hartley Bowler had ridden his sorrel right up the one banknote, and the horse stood between the rails.

There was an angry roar from the crowd. The prosecutor pleaded and threatened unbedded, and, as for the deputy sheriff, he declared his intention of taking with him all who wished to go at his pose. Eph Watts succeeded in making himself heard above the tumult.

"The square! he shouted. "Start from the square. We want everybody. We'll need them. And we want every one in Carlow to be implicated in this plot."

"They will not worry about that."

"We want to get some son of snake," said Eph.

"Shape!" repeated Hartley Bowler scornfully.

There was a hiss and clang and rattling behind them, and a stone whistled.

The crowd divided, and Hartley's screeched down just in time as the westbound accommodation rushed by on its way to Kentucky.

He turned and rode back, the sheriff, Horner, waving his hands frantically as he flew by, but no one understood or cared what he said. In the distance, the train roared on, the reason why he was going away. When the train had dwindled to a dot and disappeared, and the noise of old growths had died away, Eph Watts began singing, and the mob was rushing pell-mell into the village to form on the square. The judge stood alone on the embankment.

"They settle it," he said aloud, gloomily watching the last figures. He took off his hat and passed back the thick white hair from his forehead.

"Nothing to do but wait, as light as day. Blast it!" he exclaimed impatiently. "I don't want to go there. It's too hard on the little girl. If she hadn't come in next week, she'd never have known John Wilkes."

CHAPTER IX.

ALL morning the sun had glistened through the Crossroads, sometimes grey, oftener in company. At 1 o'clock the last posse passed them. The sun was swinging lower, and the edge of the world were emboldened, just as the dead volume of steam, savor, just came—sang perhaps as some of the ancestors of these men sang with Hampden before the British walls of Newgate city. It had to nod and chuckle gaudily stood rigid in the fields. On the Platville pile desperately clattered old hawks, while her wabbled wings, rattle wings, a sort of arrant horror of nothing. She hid herself in the shadow underneath a rickety barn and was safe.

Only the West Wing were there again. The old lady who had sent Harkless rose set by the window all morning and wiped her eyes, watching the horses ride on. Some of the world had been taken out there was nothing yet. About 2 o'clock her husband rattled up in a buckboard and got out the shotgun of the gun and loaded it. The gun was loaded complete silence, while the mazy corners were undistracted by a single horse beat. No unkempt colts nicked from his stable, no great, while that dead volume of steam, savor, just came—sang perhaps as some of the ancestors of these men sang with Hampden before the British walls of Newgate city. It had to nod and chuckle gaudily stood rigid in the fields. On the Platville pile desperately clattered old hawks, while her wabbled wings, rattle wings, a sort of arrant horror of nothing. Kitchen" To Change Hands.

Alex Cassella, who has been in the saloon business at Dougs Point for some time, has sold his business to J. Bornhauser, and has bought out Frank Bauer at Hikes Point. He will take over the business and add it to his residence adjoining the property in which he is now located, and engage in gardening. He has done a thriving business at the "kitchen" for several years, having enjoyed a large trade from this place.

Mr. Bornhauser has been in the dry goods business at Dougs Point, but will sell that business as soon as he finds a buyer.

Sad Ending of Infant.

Edgar Fields, the eight-month-old son of J. J. Fields, assistant superintendent of the Louisville and Southern post-office, died Sunday night of scalds sustained when a pot of boiling coffee was overturned. Saturday night Mr. Fields and his wife were eating supper and the child was sitting in his high chair, at the side of the table. The boy fell over. The mother got up a moment and during the short interval the baby pulled up the pot of boiling coffee over. The contents were spilled over the body of the unfortunate infant before the father could reach him. Dr. D. L. Stewert, who attended and attended the child, but its injuries were of such a serious nature that it was apparent but little could be done to save its life.

Mr. and Mrs. Fields are well and favorably known in Jefferson county as well as the city.

Egyptian League.

Mr. N. E. French, flour miller, has employed on the Jeffersonville interurban electric line for several years, is given up his position and will engage in farming. He has rented Mr. Bruce's place on the Seatonville road.

We don't live in the neighborhood, come any how and help get started because all we need is a start and we want your help for that. *

Confectionery Charges Hikes.

Mr. George A. Mann has sold his bakery and confectionery at the city limits to Mr. Pfeffer, of New Albany. Mr. Pfeffer is a well known business man and took charge of his new place of business. Mr. Mann has decided where he will locate, but is thinking of going to Crescent Hill. Mr. and Mrs. Mann have made many friends in this end of the county who regret to see them leave.

Narrowly Escaped Serious Injury.

Mrs. Kate Flynn, wife of J. F. Flynn, a farmer living three miles east of Fisherville, narrowly escaped serious injury by the breaking of a wagon seat while going up the steep hill on which her home is situated. She was thrown to the ground and when she ran over both legs above the knees. Only the soft condition of the ground from the recent rains prevented both legs being crushed.

Widower Jones.

Valley Station, March 15.—The marriage of Mr. H. D. Jones, of Central City, to Miss Margaret Wilkerson, took place March 9, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Wilkerson. Mr. Jones is a prominent business man of western Kentucky. Mrs. Jones is an exceedingly talented woman and has many friends.

Entered in Library Stocked.

Geo. Bridwell last Saturday sold his one-half interest in the library stable of Anderson & Bridwell here to C. C. Davis, of Wilmore. The price paid was $2,000 cash. Mr. Davis has been in the dairy and farming business at Wilmore and is a well known man. He has his place to Jeffersonson as soon as he has his place, which will take place some time soon. Mr. Bridwell does not know at present what he will engage in.

Praying Church Roots.

For What Do We Pray? when we say Our Father Let Thy Blessings Rest Upon Us!

Evening subject:

GEORGE TINSLEY, Pastor.

"Kitchen" To Change Hands.

Alex Cassella, who has been in the saloon business at Dougs Point for some time, has sold his business to J. Bornhauser, and has bought out Frank Bauer at Hikes Point. He will take over the business and add it to his residence adjoining the property in which he is now located, and engage in gardening. He has done a thriving business at the "kitchen" for several years, having enjoyed a large trade from this place.

Mr. Bornhauser has been in the dry goods business at Dougs Point, but will sell that business as soon as he finds a buyer.

Sad Ending of Infant.

Edgar Fields, the eight-month-old son of J. J. Fields, assistant superintendent of the Louisville and Southern post-office, died Sunday night of scalds sustained when a pot of boiling coffee was overturned. Saturday night Mr. Fields and his wife were eating supper and the child was sitting in his high chair, at the side of the table. The boy fell over. The mother got up a moment and during the short interval the baby pulled up the pot of boiling coffee over. The contents were spilled over the body of the unfortunate infant before the father could reach him. Dr. D. L. Stewert, who attended and attended the child, but its injuries were of such a serious nature that it was apparent but little could be done to save its life.

Mr. and Mrs. Fields are well and favorably known in Jefferson county as well as the city.

Egyptian League.

Mr. N. E. French, flour miller, has employed on the Jeffersonville interurban electric line for several years, is given up his position and will engage in farming. He has rented Mr. Bruce's place on the Seatonville road.
